Using an audience-centered model, Communications aims to support major city projects and provide accurate and timely information to citizens and staff through research, brand standards, media relations, crisis communications, development and maintenance of print and electronic communications channels (including penticton.ca and social media platforms), corporate advertising and public engagement.

There are the things that the public sees from Communications. Examples include: Council Highlights, website, monthly newsletter, earned media, events, social media and advertising.

It's valuable to remember that Communications is a small investment in the overall budget of the City of Penticton. Only 0.2% of the City's budget supports Communications, and this can be broken down into 2 key areas:

- 43% of Communications budget is allocated on personnel
- 57% of Communications budget is allocated to goods and services.
 - o Of those goods and services, over 41% supports newspaper advertising required under legislation to meet requirements for public notice
